PARKING ISSUES IN VALE ROAD

Residents told us of their concerns that the residents of the flats at the Sainsbury's development would park in Vale Road. As a result we put in place a policy which means that these residents are not eligible for parking permits. However, concern remained about evening and weekend parking, when there are no restrictions, and we promised to consider proposals to extend the existing restrictions to the evenings and weekends to cover this issue.

During the summer, the Council consulted residents about a proposal to extend the existing restrictions to the evenings and weekends. The response from residents in Vale Road was very low. Only one resident wrote in in support of the proposals, one was against and one resident was neither. Such a poor response does not provide strong enough support for us to take these proposals forward. There were also objections from neighbouring roads – Vicarage and Rectory Roads, which would be expected to take overspill parking and who were consulted on a similar proposal for their roads.

The main objection was to the further extension of the yellow line restrictions, which some residents argued would impede visitor parking. We have had further discussions with officers. The purpose of the yellow line restrictions in the daytime is to provide places where cars can pass. This is particularly important in the daytime when the number of vehicle movements is high, but is not so important in the evenings. So it is possible to extend the time of the residents parking bays without extending the time for the yellow lines.
